Paul Blacklock is Manager of e-Discovery Analysts in our Montréal office. Paul leverages his extensive IT knowledge and experience to assist legal teams navigate ever-growing bodies of evidentiary data.

As the manager of a team of e-Discovery analysts, in both civil and common law jurisdictions, Paul is responsible for the standardization of in-house platforms, processes and procedures across regions. His role also includes the mitigation of risk associated to processes and procedures and developing and implementing long-term solutions for litigation-related processes.

Before joining McCarthy Tétrault in 2001, Paul spent 15 years completing cost estimation and sales of commercial finishing materials to architects, interior designers, and general contractors. □

Paul graduated with his diploma of College Studies from Dawson College in 1985 and received his Attestation of Collegial Studies from Herzing College in network administration in 1999. He completed the Kroll OnTrack e-Discovery Certification Program in 2008 and participated in the Aon Hewitt Engaged Leadership and Development Program in early 2017. He is a Relativity One Certified Pro.
