Law School

Université de Montréal

Alexandra holds a bachelor's degree in law from Université de Montréal. She will article at McCarthy Tétrault's Montréal office in 2024. Before going on to study law, she made the honour roll at Dawson College, graduating with a DEC in psychology.

Alexandra's strong interest in ensuring access to legal services in her community led to her becoming involved as a volunteer clinician with Montréal's Mobile Legal Clinic. During the second year of her bachelor's program, she took part in the pitch competition held by Université de Montréal's Law and Technology Committee, an experience designed to test the participants' capacity for innovation when dealing with a legal issue. She also completed an intensive course in French comparative law that looked at the efficiency of the various legal systems, in collaboration with Université Paris 13 and Université de Paris Ovest-Nanterre. Alexandra has also offered support to new law students to help them integrate more easily and signed on as a mentor to assist students in finding articling positions in connection with the 2023 Course aux stages.

Her commitment to her studies has earned her a variety of distinctions throughout her bachelor's program.
