

Olga Abimana

Articling Student

Olga graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Civil Law and a specialized bachelor's degree in International Development and Globalization from the University of Ottawa, with honours. She also graduated with a Juris Doctor from the University of Sherbrooke. As part of her academic journey and to enhance her public speaking skills, Olga participated in the Model United Nations, winning the Best Position Paper award.

During her studies, Olga worked as a research assistant with various law professors at the University of Ottawa and McGill University, focusing on areas such as digital law and international trade and investment. She was also involved in the community life of the University of Ottawa, co-founding the Black Law Students' Association. Her academic success and involvement earned her several awards and scholarships.

In addition, Olga is passionate about travel, having visited numerous countries in the Americas, Asia, Europe, and Africa. She also enjoys outdoor activities.

Recent Insights

- Navigating the European Union's Artificial Intelligence Act

December 27, 2023

- The Quebec Privacy Regulator's Guide on Law 25-compliant Privacy Impact Assessments

November 3, 2023

