Emily Ward is an associate in our Litigation Group in Calgary where she maintains a general corporate commercial litigation and dispute resolution practice.

Emily assists clients in various industries including construction, energy, and oil and gas. Prior to becoming an associate, she summered and articulated with McCarthy Tétrault.

Emily received her J.D. from Dalhousie University. She also holds a Master of Science in Human Health and Nutritional Sciences and a Bachelor of Science (Honours) in Biological Science from the University of Guelph. During law school, Emily served on the Health Law Students Association, completed a internship with the HIV Legal Network, and worked as a legal research assistant.

Emily volunteers with the Civil Claims Duty Counsel Project and the King's Bench Court Assistance Program, which provide free legal assistance to unrepresented litigants. She also volunteers with the Elementary School Mock Trial Project which provides mock trial programs to students in Calgary elementary schools. Emily is also a committee member of the firm's Gender Equality Action Group and United Way Campaign.

Emily is a member of the Law Society of Alberta, the Calgary Bar Association, and the Canadian Bar Association.
