Faculté de droit

McGill University

Meg is a recent graduate from McGill University's Faculty of Law, where they obtained their Juris Doctor (JD) and Bachelor of Civil Law (BCL). They also hold a Bachelor of Arts (Hons) degree in History along with a Management Studies minor from the University of Waterloo. Finally, in 2015, Meg also obtained a Non-Profit Management and Leadership Certificate from Seneca College.

In their first year of law school, Meg was elected to Faculty Council. During their studies, they also served on McGill Law's Curriculum Committee and as 3L Class Co-President. In 2021, Meg was honoured to receive the Allan Neil Assh Memorial Award for achieving the highest grade in their Business Associations' course.

Prior to law school, Meg worked as a Business Development Representative and a Customer Success Manager at a Series A and Series F SaaS start-up, respectively. Drawing on these experiences, Meg takes a collaborative, proactive and comprehensive approach to client service.

In their spare time, you can catch Meg shooting hoops with friends, exploring new music, and in the kitchen, cooking tried and true recipes while they listen to their favourite Lord of the Rings podcast.
