

Grace Simpson

Étudiant(e)

Vancouver

gsimpson@mccarthy.ca

Faculté de droit

Dalhousie University

Disponible en anglais seulement.

Grace recently completed her second year of law school at the Schulich School of Law at Dalhousie University. She completed her Bachelor of Applied Science in Chemical Engineering at the University of British Columbia. Grace was awarded the Schulich School of Law Scholarship for both her first and second year of law and received Chemical Engineering awards in her undergraduate degree for high academic achievement and top capstone project.

Throughout her first-year summer, Grace worked as a legal summer student for an intellectual property firm in Ottawa. While she hopes to continue to use her technical background with her law degree, she is interested in trying new types of law and is particularly interested in business law. She believes that engineering taught her to be detailed oriented and be a strong problem solver.

In her time between classes and studying, Grace competes in competitive cheerleading with Dalhousie University and enjoys playing recreational volleyball and soccer with intramural teams. Having gone to school on both coasts of Canada, she loves the ocean and enjoys spending time outside.

Publications récentes

- Bare Assertions Don't Cut It: B.C. Court Denies Certification in Proposed Data Breach Class Action

27 juillet 2023