Eyitayo is a Juris Doctor candidate at Osgoode Hall Law School. At Osgoode, she is a Senior Editor of the Osgoode Hall Law Journal, a Dean's Fellow in Civil Procedure, Student Ambassador for the Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History and serves as a Research Assistant in constitutional law and legal history.

Eyitayo is passionate about oral advocacy. She was recognized as a distinguished oralist at the 2022 Lerner's Cup and a top advocate at the 2023 Frozen Open Osgoode Moot. She represented Osgoode at the Court of Appeal for Ontario for the 2023 Cassels Cup (Baby Gale), where she was the second place oralist and a member of the second-place respondent team.

Before law school, Eyitayo was an Avenue Intern in the commercial litigation group at a full-service law firm in Toronto. She recently completed a clinical placement at the Human Rights Legal Support Centre, where she assisted applicants at the Ontario Human Rights Tribunal with mediations, hearings, and requests for orders.

Eyitayo obtained a Bachelor of Arts in History from McGill University in 2022, with First Class Honours and a specialization in legal history. At McGill, she served as editor-in-chief of the McGill Journal of Political Studies and led a youth advocacy non-profit organization in consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council. She also interned at various international organizations focused on advancing girls' education through public-private partnerships in Sub-Saharan Africa.

In her free time, Eyitayo gardens and enjoys documenting her grandma's recipes for her family cooking blog.
