Logan recently completed his second year of his JD at Queen's University Faculty of Law. In his second year of law school, he was a student caseworker at the Queen's Elder Law Clinic providing pro bono legal services and acted as the Vice President of Finance for the Queen's Indigenous Law Students' Alliance. During his previous summer, Logan completed an International Business Law Certificate at Bader College in East Sussex, England, where he completed courses in international arbitration, international commercial law, and international economic law. While completing this certificate, Logan participated in a small-scale International Trade Law MOOT in Geneva, Switzerland, as well as chaired for a trade-negotiation simulation.

Before starting law school, Logan graduated with Distinction from Carleton University having completed his Bachelor of Arts Honours in Law with a Concentration in Business Law. While studying at Carleton, he was an active member of the Carleton Model United Nations team where he received several honours including the Best Delegate Award and Outstanding Delegation at the Canadian International Model United Nations Conference. Logan also worked for the Government of Canada at the Department of National Defence as a student during his studies.

Outside of Law, Logan maintains an active lifestyle through bird watching, and enjoys the game of chess both as a student and a player. He is currently a Co-President of the Queen's Law Chess Club.
